

Over 40% of the world's cocoa, the primary ingredient in chocolate comes from the West African nation of Côte d'Ivoire (Ivory Coast).

Though Cote d'Ivoire is the world's leading producer of cocoa, the farmers and their families live in misery.

Their communities are without clean drinking water, without schools for their children, without health facilities and lack basic infrastructures.

Corporate Social Responsibility is not only about investing in Social projects, in Certification and donations to NGOs.

Corporate Social Responsibility also means working with companies who are Socially responsible and who are committed to sustainable social and agriculture practices.

Companies who work with Eyelander don't only get the best services, they also contribute to our Social Projects.

Eyelander uses part of its profit to invest in Eyelander Foundation.

By working with us, you get the best quality and you give a better life to children in the cocoa communities

For Eyelander, best quality is also better life.

Further information and details about our work can be accessed on the Eyelander Foundation page.
